

Alina Solomon, MD,PhD is Adj. Prof. at Institute of Clinical Medicine/Neurology, University of Eastern Finland and Center for Alzheimer Research, Karolinska Institutet, Sweden. Her main research area is dementia prevention, and she has been working with both observational population-based studies and large multinational clinical trials testing preventive interventions in various target groups (e.g. at-risk elderly from the general population, patients with prodromal AD).