

Dr Paraskevi Sakka obtained her diploma in Medicine from the University of Athens in 1977 and specialty title in Neurology and Psychiatry in 1982. She spent one year at the Cambridge University Psychiatric Hospital, UK (1982-83). Since December 1983 she has worked at the Neurology Department of Athens Veterans Hospital where she has organized and directed a Memory Clinic (1997-2003). She obtained her Ph.D. degree from the Medical University of Athens in 1996. Since October 2003 she has been Director of the Department of Neurodegenerative Brain Diseases – Memory Clinic of Hygeia Hospital, Athens Greece. She has participated as invited speaker in a number of national and international conferences and has published numerous Greek and English papers. She participates in greek and international research projects for dementia, in pharmacological as well as in clinical aspects. She is particularly interested in the social dimension of dementia and the burden imposed on the caregivers. She has founded the Athens Association of Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders and she has been continuously elected Chairwoman, since 2002. During the last years she has been active in making Dementia a Public Health priority in Greece. She is President of the National Working Group for the development of a Dementia Action Plan in Greece and President of the National Observatory for Dementia.